Try Again On Move For Talks

Reds Walk Out Of Meeting To Discuss Renewal Of Truce Plans

By Don Huth
TOKYO, Sept. 25—(P)—Communist officers angrily stalked out of a meeting today at Kaesong but Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway asked them to return tomorrow for another try at reviving the stalled Korean truce talks.

The Reds walked out when Allied liaison officers insisted on discussing conditions under which the truce talks could be resumed. The Allies earlier told the Reds that Kaesong was not a satisfactory site.

The Communists wanted to get the truce talks going right away. But they demanded that the first session be given over to plans for processing a string of charges that the Allies had violated the neutrality of Kaesong.

Eight and one-half hours after the Reds stalked out of the Tuesday morning meeting, an Allied officer left the advance camp at Munsan with a message for the Reds.

He made the extraordinary night flight to Panmunjom, near Kaesong, by helicopter.

Not Wholly Dismissed
The message, signed by the senior Allied liaison officer, Col. Andrew J. Kinney, under instructions from Ridgway, said:

"Despite your unilateral action in recessing the meeting today and your abrupt departure therefrom, I am prepared to meet with you tomorrow . . . at 10 a. m. (7 p. m. CST, Tuesday) to discuss conditions mutually satisfactory for resumption of the armistice talks."

The talks have been stalled 33 days.

That word "conditions" left the situation where it was when the Reds walked out of Tuesday's meeting.

The tense, 50 minute session ended with explosive suddenness. Air Force Col. Andrew J. Kinney, senior Allied liaison officer, had proposed that both sides discuss conditions which would guarantee uninterrupted talks by the negotiators.

Reject Suggestion
Chinese Red Col. Chang Chun-San flatly rejected the suggestion, said the meeting was ended, and headed for the door.

The Reds broke off the higher level cease-fire talks Aug. 23 after charging that an Allied plane had bombed the Kaesong neutral zone the night before. The Allies investigated and denied the charge. The Red high command had tried in vain to resume Tuesday's stalled armistice discussions instead of the liaison talks.

But the move was saddled with a provision that the first session set up machinery to deal with a long list of Red charges, already denied by the Allies.

Ignoring the Red offer, the Allies sent Kinney, Marine Col. Jas. C. Murray and South Korean Lt. Col. Lee Soo Young to Kaesong by helicopter to bring up the subject of conditions.

Before even entering the meeting, the Reds had notified the Allies that Red liaison officers could discuss only one thing—the time for resuming truce negotiations. After the session broke up, Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's headquarters said:

"The senior Communist liaison officer, Col. Chang Chun-San, brought an abrupt halt to the liaison officer meetings at Kaesong today by stalking angrily out of the conference room after refusing to countenance United Nations command's senior liaison officer, Col. Andrew J. Kinney's suggestion that the liaison officers of both sides be delegated authority to discuss conditions concerning the armistice conference that would be conducive to progress toward a Korean cease-fire."

Run If NATO Jeopardized

NEW YORK, Sept. 24—(P)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower will run for president only if he thinks such a move is necessary to preserve the North Atlantic Treaty organization, a Republican governor said today.

Gov. Walter J. Kohler, of Wisconsin, returning by plane from a three-week European tour, said he had a "frank talk" of 45 minutes with Eisenhower.

"Only if NATO were jeopardized and he felt he alone could save it would he declare himself a presidential candidate," Kohler said.

Kohler said the Supreme Allied commander in Europe "feels he has a very important job to do now."

Opportunity to Be a Prison Guard
JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 25—(P)—Anyone want to be a prison guard?

If so, Ralph J. Turner, state personnel director, announced today merit system examinations will be given within a week or 10 days.

Starting salary for guards is $154 a month.

Ten More Leave For Induction in Army

Three on Routine Flight Killed

SABINA, Ohio, Sept. 25—(P)—An air force B-25 bomber on a routine training flight crashed near here today and all three persons aboard were killed.

The state highway patrol said there was no fire or explosion, but the plane was demolished. The plane had taken off from Wright-Patterson air force base near Dayton.

Wright-Patterson officials confirmed there were only three persons aboard. Names of the victims were withheld pending notification to their next-of-kin.

Motorcade in Arrival Here

Balloons Be Sent Up in Crusade For Freedom

Sedalia police met the Crusade for Freedom motorcade at the city limits, upon its arrival from Warrsburg, this afternoon and escorted the unit to the parking place in front of the courthouse on Ohio avenue.

Later this afternoon addresses by several persons, including Mayor Herb Studer, were to be made over the unit's public address system and balloons were to be released. Leaflets like those dropped behind the Iron Curtain in Czechoslovakia and Poland.

Composing the motorcade are a two-ton truck which carries the helium and the balloons and a station wagon with the sound system. The truck was donated by the Ford Motor Co., and the station wagon by the Chevrolet division of General Motors Corp.

'Commies' Press Drive Further

BONN, Germany, Sept. 25—(P)—East Germany's Communists pushed their "German unity" propaganda drive a step further today, and West German political leaders began working on a joint reply.

The Communist zone's parliament sent a telegram to the speaker of the West German parliament, demanding that public discussion be arranged in West Germany on the Reds' demands for unification of the country through nationwide elections.

Cease Turning Out Penny Banks

NEW YORK, Sept. 25—(P)—A toy manufacturer announced today her firm would turn out no more penny banks—just those that take nickels, dimes and quarters.

Mrs. Ann Payson, head of a Hackensack, N. J., toy company, said the changeover was due to the copper shortage and the penny's lost appeal to children.

Pennies buy very little today, she said, "and most children do not show much appreciation for anything less than a dime."

Optimist Club Heard Talks On Plans For a Stadium

The Sedalia Optimist club met today noon in the Ambassador Room of the Bothwell hotel when E. G. Ringen, president, presiding.

The speaker, E. M. Stafford, Jr., was introduced and explained the proposal of the trustees for the Jaynes Foundation to the citizens of Sedalia. The money in the foundation he said, is to be used for a stadium to be developed in conjunction with the recreational area. The building of the recreational area, he continued, is to be commenced with the funds which will be raised on Stadium Day, September 27. He stated that the

Trail Details Of Gifts And Big Payments

Records Show $45,000 Paid a Former Collector

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25—(P)—Senate investigators today brought two tax agents and a wage-hour investigator into their developing story of expensive gifts and big payments by American Lithofold Corp. to federal employees.

Trailing details of the St. Louis printing firm's relations with government workers, a Senate investigations subcommittee heard: 1. James B. E. Olson, former U.S. alcohol tax collector in New York, testify that he drew fees from Lithofold and used his influence to get profitable printing contracts for Lithofold from firms whose taxes he collected. Lithofold records showed $5,851 paid to Olson.

2. Testimony by Vonne V. Circe, Lithofold's New York representative, that he thought Olson was employed by the firm "solely because of his influence," and that he thought it was an improper arrangement.

3. Walter Doxon, an internal revenue agent at Atlantic City, N. J., testified that he and another government employee drew more than $7,000 each as commissions from American Lithofold while on the federal payroll.

Doxon named the other man as John L. Kelly, regional supervisor of the Labor department's wages and hours investigating unit.

Doxon also testified that the income tax reports of R. A. Blauner, son of Lithofold's president, passed through his office while he was receiving commissions from the firm. He said he referred one of Blauner's disputed tax returns to a subordinate, whose sister was a close friend of Blauner. He named the brother and sister as Jack O'Connor and Marian O'Connor, employed in the Newark office of the internal revenue bureau.

Besides his fees, Doxon said he received such gifts as a camera and a turkey from Lithofold last winter.

Tells of Suspension
Doxon told the senators he was suspended by the internal revenue bureau without pay, "effective yesterday morning," for 30 days pending outcome of the present inquiry.

While Olson was in the witness chair, Senator Nixon (R-Calif.) suggested at one point that it amounted to a "shakedown" for Olson, as alcohol tax collector, to solicit business from beer and liquor firms. Olson vigorously denied that.

Third Worst Polio Year In St. Louis Area
ST. LOUIS, Sept. 25—(P)—With six deaths and 117 cases listed thus far, authorities believe 1951 may become the third worst polio year in history for the St. Louis area.

The season's sixth fatality was four-year-old Katherine Tesson, who died yesterday.

Charles Walton of the Smith-Cotton student body spoke in support of the Stadium Day Drive and assured the Optimist club that the prospect of having a stadium in Sedalia where school athletic contests can be held is very dear to the hearts of the Smith-Cotton students.

A talk was also made by Harold Barrick in behalf of the Crusade for Freedom.

An announcement was made that a board meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at the home of the president, E. G. Ringen.

Milk Advance at St. Louis
ST. LOUIS, Sept. 25—(P)—The price of milk has been advanced 1 cent a quart by the St. Louis Dairy Co., and one-half cent by the Pevely Dairy Co.—two of the city's largest milk outlets.

St. Louis Dairy regular milk now sells for 22 cents a quart. Pevely's for 22½ cents. The boost was attributed to a seasonal rise in prices paid to dairy farmers.

William Middleton Called to Service

James William Middleton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Middleton, 505 West Sixth, who was graduated from Oklahoma A & M college at Stillwater, Okla., with a master of science degree in geography, has been voluntarily recalled from the naval reserve to active duty.

Young Middleton, who is a QM 3/c with 11 months service in the Pacific in 1946, is now stationed at U.S. N.A.S. in Olathe, Kas., where he is a station keeper.

His wife, the former Hazel Kirkpatrick, will join him soon. She is temporarily at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Kirkpatrick.

Drive Against Black Market

Check in Over 500 Cities is Made On Slaughtering

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25—(P)—The government today threw all available price control personnel into a nation-wide, pre-dawn check of some 500 slaughterhouses in a drive to stamp out illegal practices in the handling of beef.

Price enforcement director Edward P. Morgan said slaughtering operations in more than 500 cities were being checked. He expected hundreds of packers would come under inspection before nightfall.

Price Stabilizer Michael V. De Salle ordered all regional and district price stabilization officers to help special enforcement agents in the coast-to-coast crackdown.

OPS agents were ordered to inspect records of slaughterers, their cattle weights, scales and invoices. The agency said the aim is to determine whether they are purchasing livestock in compliance with the control law, and whether anyone is selling beef at illegal prices.

Aid Request by OPS
Morgan said OPS agents had been directed to request the aid of other federal, state or local officials if need be.

De Salle issued a statement saying that as a result of a drive against illegal slaughtering practices in the past week:

1. Violations have been uncovered in at least eight cities. He named Chicago, Cleveland, Newark, Spokane, San Francisco, Portland, Los Angeles and Fresno, Calif.

2. Federal court actions already have been started in Newark, Portland and Cleveland.

3. One of the first alleged "black market" meat cases has been started at Wichita, Kas. Defendants in this case were identified as Bert O. Persons, doing business as the El Dorado Packing Co. of El Dorado, Kas., and Calvin Virgil Adams, doing business as Willard's Fine Meats, Wichita.

OPS officials alleged that "ungraded and unmarked" meat found in Persons' truck was traced to Adams' market and then back to Persons' packing house.

Pfc. Robert R. Becker Was Killed In Action
Pfc. Robert R. Becker, son of Mr. and Mrs. K. R. Becker, of Spencer, Ind., was killed in action in Korea September 16.

Mrs. Becker was Zana McNeil, formerly of Sedalia, and many years a teacher in the public schools.

Pfc. Becker was a grandson of Mrs. Sallie McNeil of 1500 South Barrett.

Milk Advance at St. Louis
ST. LOUIS, Sept. 25—(P)—The price of milk has been advanced 1 cent a quart by the St. Louis Dairy Co., and one-half cent by the Pevely Dairy Co.—two of the city's largest milk outlets.

St. Louis Dairy regular milk now sells for 22 cents a quart. Pevely's for 22½ cents. The boost was attributed to a seasonal rise in prices paid to dairy farmers.

Want Two Mail Deliveries a Day

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 25—(P)—The AFL convention wants twice-daily postal deliveries restored.

It so voted last night after hearing William C. Doherty, head of National Letter Carriers association, renew his feud with the Postmaster General on the convention floor.

Doherty last week called for the resignation of Postmaster General Jesse M. Donaldson. The latter retorted he had no wish to engage in a "gutter fight with an egocentric person."

The letter carriers' chief, a vice president of the AFL, told the convention Donaldson's remarks were "intemperate." He added:

"That part of his statement which places postal curtailment responsibility upon Congress must be challenged." Doherty said the orders reducing postal deliveries to one a day were issued April 17, 1950, by Donaldson "solely on his own responsibility."

"Since April 17, 1950, the people of America have not been getting good postal service and the full responsibility for the postal breakdown must be placed squarely upon the shoulders of the Postmaster General who initiated the false economy reduction of postal service."

Redistricting To the Final Voting Stage

Political Power Overwhelms The Dissenting Group

By Larry Hall

JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 25—(P)—Sheer political power pushed a congressional redistricting bill to the final voting stage in the Missouri senate early today.

Republicans threatened that if the bill passes both senate and house they would refer it to the people. That might delay things long enough to force all congressional candidates next year to run at large.

But the Democrats paid no attention. They didn't even reply to most of the attacks. They had the votes.

Twenty Democrats voted to advance the majority's bill to position for passage next week. Nine Republicans stood to be counted against it.

The vote came shortly after midnight, more than 11 hours after the senate started debate on the controversial redistricting bill yesterday afternoon. It gives Democrats control of seven districts, Republicans two and leaves two doubtful. That cuts the number of districts from 13 to 11 as required by the 1950 census.

One by one, the Democrats voted down amendments offered by the Republicans. The only change accepted was one by Sen. Anthony M. Webb (D) of St. Louis to equalize population in two big city districts.

Republicans offered their plan as more fair. It would have set seven districts normally Democratic, with one doubtful, and four districts normally Republican, with one doubtful.

"We do not think we're asking too much," said Sen. R. Jasper Smith, minority floor leader.

But the Democrats said "No," 9 to 18.

Separation Fails
Other Republicans tried other ways to separate Springfield and Joplin in separate districts; to keep Perry and St. Genevieve counties out of the heavily Democratic tenth district of southeastern Missouri; and to make other changes.

Straight party votes rejected them all.

Toward the end, Smith castigated the Democratic approach as "an attitude of contemptuous arrogance." He called the bill "the most monstrous political gerrymander ever seriously considered by a Missouri General Assembly in modern times."

Sen. C. R. Hawkins (R) of Brumley, another Republican, called it "vicious, unfair and iniquitous" before he took his coat off and really lit in.

"I warn you now sire," he said, "you can't get away with it with the people."

Sen. Frank M. Frisby (R) of Bethany said that for northern Missouri the bill was "as fine a piece of political maneuvering as I ever saw. I think it stinks to high heaven."

Sen. Arley Frieze (R) of Carthage called it "a disgrace to the state. I shall do everything I can to see that it is referred to the people—After all, it's their state."

And Sen. Leo J. Rozier (R) of Perryville opposed it with Democratic attempts to "steal" the governorship from Forrest C. Donnell ten years ago. He predicted the redistricting bill would kick back against Democrats the same way that episode did.

For the most part Democrats simply declined to answer Republican questions. But at one point Richard J. Chamier (D) of Moberly suggested Rozier was trying to delay the bill with a filibuster.

At another point he said the bill was drafted to "give the Democratic party a fair advantage."

Sen. J. F. Patterson (D) of Caruthersville, chairman of the redistricting committee, explained the bill only as the choice of the committee majority.

Sen. Edgar J. Keating (D) of Kansas City frankly defended the bill's plan to keep two Jackson county districts safely Democratic. He said he would oppose any other arrangement.

Try Recapture $750,000,000 Tax Revenue

Had Been Cut Out of Excess Profits Tax Bill

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25—(P)—Sen. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo) launched a fight today to recapture an estimated $750,000,000 of excess profits tax revenue knocked out of the tax bill by the Senate finance committee.

The Wyoming senator told his colleagues he would seek first to eliminate from the committee measure relief provisions cutting $120,000,000 a year from excess profits taxes.

Then, he said, he would try to restore the House-approved provision which would levy the tax on all profits above 75 per cent of those in the base period.

The present law, and the figure approved by the committee, allows business to exempt 85 per cent of profits before applying the excess profits tax. The difference in percentages accounts for about $610,000,000.

The House measure would raise taxes about $7,200,000,000 a year as compared with $5,500,000,000 in the Senate committee version. O'Mahoney said the excess profits provisions of the committee bill provide "unneeded relief for corporations."

He cited corporation financial reports in arguing that corporation dividends and undistributed profits are running this year at a rate in excess of total corporate income before taxes in 1939.

Dividends paid by corporations in the second quarter of 1951, he contended, were at an annual rate of $9,700,000,000, about three billion dollars more than 1939 profits before taxes.

Furthermore, he said, undistributed corporation profits also exceed 1939 income before taxes. O'Mahoney claimed a "good chance" of success in his effort to beef up the excess profits tax.

Boost Over Five Billion
The bill would boost federal taxes—largely personal and corporation income taxes—an estimated $5,500,000,000 a year. It was the sixth day of Senate debate over the big tax hike. Despite urgings of administration leaders for speed, a final vote was not yet in sight.

O'Mahoney told a reporter he would base his case against lightening corporation excess profits taxes voted by the House largely on his three claims that:

1. The excess profits tax is not yet a year old, and Congress should wait to find out what its effects have been before any changes such as those recommended by the finance committee are made.

2. "The taxpayers on whom it falls are amply able to pay the tax."

3. "The government, in a struggle for survival of the free world, needs the revenue."

The senators got past one hurdle yesterday, approving by a voice vote a provision which the finance committee estimated would add $10,000,000 a year to federal taxes on cooperatives.

This section would impose the corporation income tax on earnings of cooperatives which have been neither distributed nor allocated to members.

Senator Williams (R-Dele) led a three-hour floor fight against the provision. He urged fewer tax exemptions for certain cooperatives. He said they no get exemptions on earnings which may never be distributed to their members.

After a sharp exchange between Williams and his fellow Republican, GOP policy leader Taft of Ohio, the Senate smothered, 72 to 1, an amendment Williams sponsored to tighten the tax exemption rules for cooperatives.

Committee on Fire Prevention

William E. Hurlbut, Jr., director of Civic Activities of the Sedalia Chamber of Commerce, has appointed John G. Crawford as chairman of Fire Prevention Week which will be October 7 to 12.

On this committee people who sell fire insurance have been named by Mr. Crawford and the following attended a meeting held at 3:30 o'clock Monday afternoon: Nolan Bricken, Robert C. Evans, T. C. Longan, Tom Jenkins, Bob Mullen, Dick Snow, W. D. Steele, J. W. Watts, Charles Maggard, J. H. Yount, Herbert Zoering and John G. Crawford. The meeting was called for the purpose of organizing committees to sponsor Fire Prevention Week.

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 25—(P)—The Crusade for Freedom is having a dramatic effect on the people of Poland and Czechoslovakia, Harold E. Stassen believes.

Stassen, national chairman of the Crusade for Freedom, spoke here yesterday at a demonstration of the balloon barrage which is being used to spread western propaganda to the Communist-dominated countries of Europe.

"If the American people," Stassen said, "using truth as a weapon, will tear down the Iron Curtain, the day will come when the

May Postpone Vote in Britain

LONDON, Sept. 25—(P)—Rumors that Britain's October 25 national election might be postponed because of King George VI's serious illness were denied by a Labor government spokesman today.

The rumors began circulating in London when it was learned Prime Minister Attlee had called a meeting of his ministers tonight. The spokesman pointed out that several ministers were out of the country last week when Attlee announced plans for the election, and said "This is the first occasion he has had for discussing the general situation with them."

State Agencies Ask Millions More Cash

State Fair After $200,000 For General Repairs

JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 25—(P)—Right down the line state agencies and institutions are asking for more money.

One after another their spokesmen told the house appropriations committee yesterday and last night of flood losses or increased prices.

The big pitch for more cash was made indirectly by the state commissioner of education, Hubert Wheeler. On that score he spoke for the Missouri Teachers' association asking that a $17,000,000 frost on the regular school aid allotment of one-third general revenue. That would make the total for the 1951-53 biennium a record $93,000,000 or more.

Wheeler said the state board of education, his boss, had not expressed itself on the need for more money for school aid. The plea came directly from the school teachers.

Rep. Fred Ray Columbo (D) of St. Louis, appropriations chairman, said the committee wanted to know how board members felt about it. He said their views would be sought by letter.

Columbo had a $1,000,000 item in the bill for schools. Other requests for additional money:

State Tuberculosis sanatorium at Mt. Vernon wanted $694,000 from the state. Most of the additional money would be to provide care for an additional 100 patients.

State Fair grounds at Sedalia $200,000 for general repairs and some additional buildings.

State Adjutant General's office, $43,000 to pay emergency costs and wages to National Guardsmen who were ordered to duty during the July floods along the Missouri river. The guardsmen were called out by Lt. Gov. James T. Blair, Jr., a few hours after Gov. Forrest Smith left the state on a trip to Washington.

Dalton Vocational School for Negroes, $135,850. Lincoln university president Sherman D. Scruggs told the committee the board of regents is desperate. "Either give the school adequate funds or relieve it of the responsibility of operating the school," he told the committee.

The state mental hospitals asked for more to meet higher merit wage system scales and boosted food prices. They broke down this food for different institutions:

Hospital No. 1 at Fulton, $94,450.

Hospital No. 2 at St. Joseph, $338,000 for salaries and $156,600 for food.

No. 3 at Nevada, $261,900 for salaries and $97,000 for food.

No. 4 at Farmington, $128,000 for salaries and $24,000 for food.

St. Louis State hospital, $238,896 for salaries.

St. Louis State Training school, $109,193 for salaries.

Marshall - Carroll Training School for Feeble-Minded, $145,440 for salaries and $50,000 for food.

According to the State Department, Stefan said, the bust and plaque were donated by Julius Wadsworth, a Washington, D. C. artist. Stefan identified Wadsworth as a former foreign service officer with the State Department.

The bust and plaque, he said, were taken to San Francisco in July for exhibition at the Opera House during the conference, but the American delegation "turned down the proposal."

A State Department spokesman said the department would have no immediate comment.

people of Russia themselves will tear down the walls of the Kremlin."

Fifty balloons were released here, carrying yellow leaflets appealing for contributions to the crusade.

In the last five weeks, Stassen said, more than 11,000 balloons "have carried 6,000,000 pieces of literature to the people behind the Iron Curtain. Information has come back of the dramatic effect on the people."

Stassen is president of the Union of Pennsylvania and former governor of Minnesota.

Italy Be Freed of Treaty

U. S., Britain and France to Lift Restrictions as To Armament

PARIS, Sept. 25—(P)—The United States, Britain and France will publish a joint declaration tomorrow saying Italy "is no longer subject" to her peace treaty arms limitations.

Russia was the fourth major power involved in imposing the treaty terms on Italy.

Diplomatic informants in Paris said the three western powers would say in the declaration "changing circumstances" since the Italian treaty was written have made it no longer necessary to compel Italy to abide by certain treaty clauses.

These clauses mainly are those that restricted Italy to an army of 250,000, an air force of 350 planes and 25,000 men, and a navy of no more than 13

Strike Once More By The Family Curse

By Hal Boyle
NEW YORK.—(AP)—Sometime in the middle of the night I hear my wife call sharply from her twin bed:

"Turn over on your side, Rover."

I saluted drowsily in the darkness, and carried out her order.

Several times more before dawn came I heard her call across: "Turn on your left side. Turn on your right side." And once, I dimly recall, she said in utter exasperation:

"I give up. For heaven's sake, stand on your head!"

At the breakfast table this morning, I noticed Frances had circled under her eyes, and asked if she hadn't slept well.

"Sleep?" she said indignantly. "I didn't get a wink all night long. You snored so loud I couldn't."

"Probably because I was sleeping on my back," I mumbled. "Why didn't you turn me over?"

"Turn you over?" she demanded. "I had you spinning like a top— you, you human flapjack. You flopped about like a fish—but you kept right on snoring. I don't know what to do with you."

She looked so depressed that I didn't have the heart to tell her the full truth. She doesn't know yet what she's really up against.

No Known Cure
For the terrible Boyle family curse has struck again! The curse that runs in our tribe is snoring. Sooner or later it strikes us all—man, woman, or child. And there is no known cure.

On one knows how long this dark and noisy affliction has been in our clan. But grandfather Boyle brought it over from Ireland with him. And it has raged unchecked for at least three generations since then.

It seems to predominate on the male side, but once it breaks out in a family there is nothing but insomnia for the others until they, too, catch the ailment in time. Then, as the matching snores rise up and smash in echoing waves in the darkness, peace comes again to all.

Women who have married into our family have tried everything to break up this snoring. But in the end the only way they have found rest is to take up the habit themselves.

There was the case of cousin "Marble Mouth" Boyle, as we call him. His frau put marbles in his mouth to stop his snoring. It worked for a week, but then a strange series of squeaks and grinding noises began coming from him. He was snoring again! The only net result was that when she took out the marbles, he got insomnia. And for the rest of his life he had to sleep with his mouth full of marbles.

The wife of another cousin of mine once took up needlepoint at night because of her husband's snoring. She eventually did the whole history of the Civil War in needlepoint before she finally discovered how to snore herself.

Poor Frances. She doesn't know yet what she's in for. I'm buying her a pair of earmuffs and a book on insomnia. But these are only stopgap measures. What she'll really need is a book on "How to Learn to Snore in Self-Defense."

It's the only way a girl can really protect herself, once her husband takes up snoring in earnest.

Deterioration Causes Annual Loss In Billions
WASHINGTON.—(AP)—We could re-arm on the twelve billion dollars annual loss from deterioration of things we use, if we could stop the deterioration.

The twelve billion figure is from the Prevention of Deterioration Center of the National Academy of Sciences. The deterioration includes everything from a hundred million dollars that moths eat to five billions that rust takes.

Pet Not Pelt

TORONTO.—(AP)—There's only one letter's difference between "pet" and "pelt," but it's a big difference to 13-year-old Audrey Hinds. Audrey, who lives in suburban Willowdale, has a pet fox called Freddy and she is getting a little weary of people telling her Freddy would make a better pelt than a pet.

Freddy was found playing with the Hinds' two dogs on their lawn four months ago. Older sister Pat captured the fox and gave it to Audrey. Although he takes the occasional nip at strangers, and has eaten the family's pet rabbit "Snow White," Freddy is there to stay and has no intention of running away.

Nephrite in California

SANTA BARBARA, Calif.—(AP)—Nephrite, a semi-precious mineral, has been discovered on the south slope of Figueroa Mountain near here.

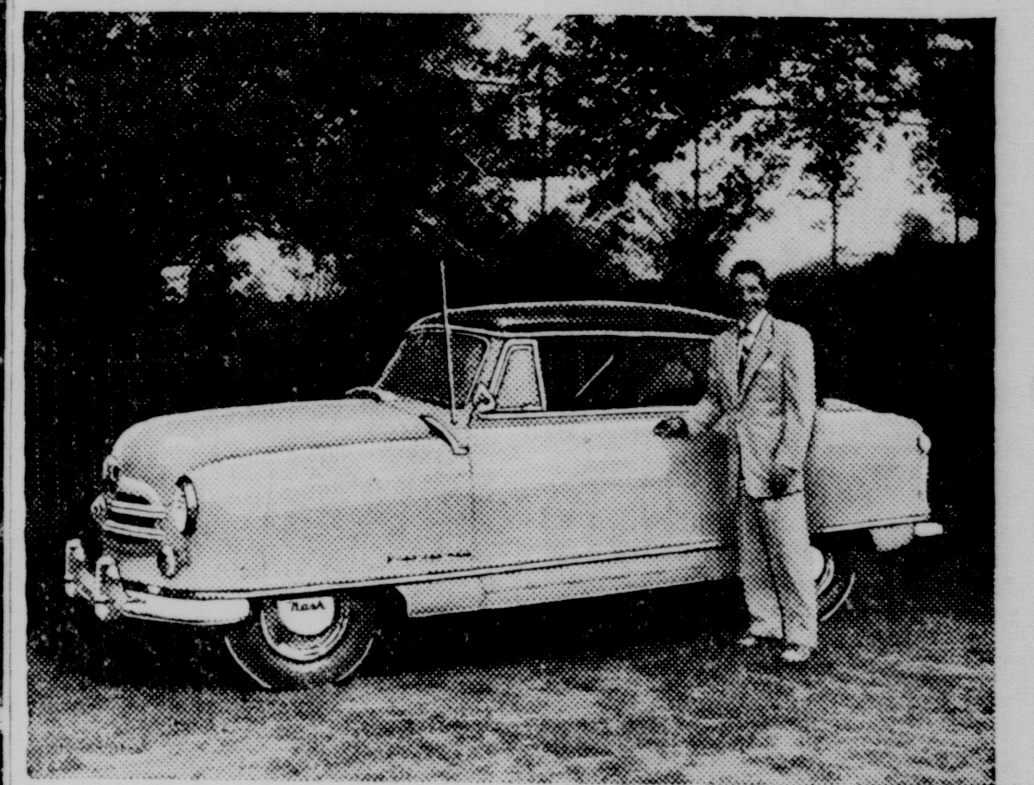

Now chiefly a collector's item, nephrite is sometimes known as "spinach jade" because of its color. For some primitive peoples, however, nephrite proved valuable in making weapons.

C. Douglas Woodhouse, mineralogist of the University of California, discoverer of the new nephrite deposit, says the new find marks the first time that the mineral has been found in Southern California.

Experiences In Japan Told By Sorosis Speaker

A talk that was both serious and humorous held the interest of Sorosis members Monday afternoon at the first meeting of the season when Richard D. Yennie of Kansas City told of his experiences as a Japanese interpreter.

Mr. Yennie, who is 23 years old, is president of the Midwest Ju Jitsu school and instructor of Japanese, American School of Languages in Kansas City.

It was his interest, at the age of four, in Ju Jitsu that prompted him to learn Japanese. Not only did he learn Ju Jitsu but he amazed his instructor by picking up the Japanese words. The instructor encouraged him to learn Japanese and that language immediately became his hobby.

Throughout his grade school life and through high school, young Yennie studied Japanese, and when he was graduated, at the age of 18, he did a very daring thing, he said. He wrote a letter to the War Department, using all the big words he could find, asking to be a Japanese interpreter. The reply from the government was that he must pass an examination, which he did. His hobby paid off.

For three years he was in the Orient where he was an interpreter both for his own country and for the British.

His first experiences in Japan were bad, filled with war time trials. Giving an example of one, Mr. Yennie told of the charge against one Japanese who had been marching with an army of men, when he suddenly stopped, grabbed a baby from its mother's arms and holding it by the ankle tossed it high into the air. As it came down he shot at it several times. When the war was over, the speaker said, this man was recognized and tried. This was one of the many atrocities for which men were tried at the war trials in which he was an interpreter, Mr. Yennie said.

This cruelty in the Japanese people was inspired by a religion in that country called Shinto, the speaker said, of which the thought behind the act was "To die for the emperor is to live forever." That was why, he explained, few Japanese were captured, they committed suicide. The family swords, he said, that took from five to 15 years to make were a symbol of cold steel and blood.

One of the first things MacArthur asked for when he went into Japan was 1,000 missionaries and 30,000 Bibles and the people on the street were asking for Christianity.

As an illustration Mr. Yennie told of a small Japanese boy who asked to shine his shoes. Yennie sat down on the curb to have his shoes shined and talked to the child, asking why he was not in school. The boy answered with "I loved my mother, too." That did not make sense to the American who questioned the boy further. He found that American bombers had destroyed the boy's home and his entire family—he found in the gutter in front of where his home had been all that was left of his mother, part of her leg.

"How can you be friendly with an American like me, after that Yennie asked the boy, and the child pulled out a worn book. The Life of Christ he had found in a garbage can. He had read it, liked it, and wanted to be a Christian.

Mr. Yennie told of some of the funny things he encountered in Japan, too, customs very different from ours. In judging a girl's beauty in America, he said, men usually start looking at a girl's legs but not so in Japan. There, he pointed out, the girl's sit on the floor with their legs under them until their legs look about like pretzels so instead the boys start looking at the back of a girl's neck—all girls wear their hair high, he said. He told how he stood on a corner with some Japanese boys and a girl went by, they all turned with interest and he turned, too. The Japanese boys looked at her neck, he said, but being an American I looked at her legs.

Taking a bath is a bit different, too, the speaker said. They use a round wooden tub and put a fire under it. It gets so hot, he said, he didn't see how they stood it, and remarked he tried it only once and that time nearly fainted.

Mr. Yennie said that another group was fast gaining in Japan in opposition to Christianity. It is Communism he said, whose basic that the same is true in the United States. One third of the people of the world are now under Communism he said, whose basic thought it to tear down belief in God. He told of their great strength, their ambition to conquer the world, and of the revolution that might come in this country through the Communists who are working here now.

In closing his talk Mr. Yennie

U. S. Experts Anticipate No World War III This Year

By Drew Pearson

(Copyright, 1951, By The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

WASHINGTON—The month of September and early October when the harvest is in is the time when the chancelleries and general staffs of Europe watch closely for signs of war. If Europe can get by this period of dry, mild weather before winter bogs down an attacking army, they figure there will be no danger of war at least until June.

Top U.S. officials, likewise, have made all-important surveys of the war possibility, and it is possible for this column to report what their general conclusions are:

1. Russia will not launch World War III this year. However, Russia is expected to continue pressing war by satellites.

2. China, not Russia, has been more eager for a truce. The U.S. army study indicates that Russia came out with the truce proposal chiefly for propaganda purposes; perhaps to stall for time in order to get new arms to Korea.

3. Next step in Communist aggression is likely to be Burma, Thailand, and Indo-China. This area is all-important to the Kremlin if the millions of China are to have rice. Moscow would probably gamble on starting World War III in these countries, though she doesn't actually want it.

4. In Iran the Russians will probably march into the northern province of Azerbaijan and take it by force—if the British go into southern Iran to protect their oil refinery. Here again the Russians are willing to gamble that the West will not go to war over Iran.

5. In Germany, the U.S. analysis does not anticipate a Russian military move, but does foresee a continual army build-up.

Moscow's biggest drive will be to pressure through local governments to stop the building of U.S. air bases in Europe and North Africa.

Behind the Iron Curtain

Increasing evidence is coming back from inside the Iron Curtain to show that the freedom-friendship balloons and other activities of the Crusade for Freedom have really got under the Kremlin's skin.

In East Bohemia, for instance, fields where the balloon messages fell were declared "off-limits" to farm workers by security sections of the National Communist committee. In another section of Bohemia, Communist officials offered rewards to the teams of youth brigades who collected the largest number of friendship leaflets.

Near the Czech-Austrian border, a patrol of border police reported "voluminous flying objects" which might be enemy paratroopers. When Prague got the report, it dispatched tank units amid great excitement.

The flying objects, however, turned out to be pillow balloons with the word "Svoboda"—"Freedom"—written on them in large letters. They were bouncing along the ground in the early morning twilight like miniature flying saucers. Inside of them, of course, were friendship messages from the American people to the people of Czechoslovakia.

This is an illustration of how the American people, usually ahead of their government, have begun to penetrate the Iron Curtain on their own, at the same time aged senators have drastically and dangerously curtailed the State department budget for winning friends and influencing people.

Note: The Crusade for Freedom is headed by Gen. Lucius Clay and supported by Americans of all walks of life from General Eisenhower to Dan Tobin, head of the Teamsters union, Bill Green, head of the A. F. of L., and James Carey, secretary of the CIO.

Tennessee Feud
It was meant for the eyes of a few select senators only, but a chatty Kenneth McKellar, grandpa of the Senate, has written an angry letter about his Tennessee colleague, crimebuster Estes Kefauver. The letter was mailed to all members of the Senate judiciary committee in order to undermine Kefauver's plan for appointing a roving judge for Tennessee.

"As a member of the policy committee of the Senate, I secured for Mr. Kefauver a place on the Senate judiciary committee. I apologize for that," sourly wrote McKellar.

This is the latest eruption in a bitter feud between the two Tennessee senators. It started when Kefauver refused to let McKellar handpick all federal jobs in Tennessee. McKellar became so enraged that he forbade his staff to mention Kefauver's name in his presence. Ever since, the vengeful McKellar has sniped at everything Kefauver has tried to do in the Senate.

Now McKellar is urging a new judge for middle Tennessee, but Kefauver is seeking a roving judge who would divide his time between the mid-state where a judge is ill and western Tennessee which is rapidly growing. Local sentiment supports Kefauver in this.

"For some unaccountable reason, unless it be politics, Mr. Kefauver turned up not long ago wanting to make that judge a roving judge . . ." McKellar complained bitterly in his private letter to the judiciary committee members. " . . . He insists on having the new judge made a roving judge for both middle and west Tennessee, and in some manner unknown to me, he claims to have secured a majority of the committee in favor of his amendment."

Then McKellar, who wields great power as boss of the appropriations committee, appealed: "I am asking you as a senator to vote for my amendment to strike out Mr. Kefauver's amendment."

He would be greatly obliged for your vote and support in keeping politics out of our judicial affairs," concluded McKellar after himself pulling heavily on the political wires.

Weeding Out Bureaucrats

It hasn't received any publicity, but President Truman has ordered a drastic housecleaning to sweep the drones from federal government. An ultimatum has already gone out to all agencies to clean house or face budgetary and personnel cuts.

"The present emergency has caused great demands on the manpower resources of our country with shortages of manpower in certain special areas already being felt. . . . The federal government, as the largest single employer in the country, should set the example. Therefore, I expect the head of each executive department and agency to bring about maximum effectiveness and economy in the utilization of personnel," the President wrote in identical letters to Civil Service Chairman Robert Ramspeck and Budget Director Frederick Lawton. Truman ordered them to "request reports from all departments and agencies and conduct regular inspections and surveys so that reports can be made to me on progress in conserving manpower."

"This manpower conservation program should be given top priority throughout the executive branch," the President added. As a result, Ramspeck and Lawton sent a joint ultimatum to all agencies to "take steps to assure the most effective and economical use" of manpower. This will be followed by on-the-spot inspections to make sure the drones exit.

Firemen Lose Brakes
MT. VERNON, Ill.—Brakes of Mt. Vernon's 12-ton firetruck failed on a fast run. But the chief and two firemen got off with only "a pretty funny feeling." The driver couldn't make his turn and kept on at 50 M.P.H. before a hill slowed the fire wagon enough to make the next turn. The fire was out.

Written Record of Past Events Might Solve Present Problems

We forget so many of the promises we make ourselves through years, and so many of the flashes of deep insight that come now and again, that it would be a wise and helpful thing if we women would keep a record of such evidence of growing maturity.

Such a record would not only help us to better understand ourselves and to keep our lives headed toward some worthwhile goal but it would teach us to better understand others.

What woman, able to look back on a written record of how she felt at age 16, wouldn't better understand her own 16-year-old daughter?

What new mother-in-law who could look at a written record of the part, either good or bad, or both that her own mother-in-law had played in her life could not help but be more aware of her own daughter-in-law's viewpoint and problems?

What woman who once faced what seem unbearable tragedy and came through it, would get fresh courage to face another blow if she could read that old record?

Memory Not Too Reliable
Perhaps we should remember these things. But memory is often short and not always to be trusted.

A written record of our own lives could teach us much about ourselves and a lot about other people, too.

We need that understanding.

Oil and Trouble in the Middle East--

With Iran's oil output cut off by nationalization, production in other areas of the rich Persian gulf area is booming. But, even the stepped-up oil production of Saudi Arabia and smaller gulf nations—which flows westward chiefly via huge, desert-spanning pipelines—could be shut off by the action of a few Arab extremists. The Newsmag above shows normal flow of oil from Middle East. Israel's big Haifa refineries have already been sealed off from much of their crude oil supplies by Arab blockade and a recent resolution of the Arab league contains an implied threat to the other great pipelines carrying oil to Tripoli and Sidon in Lebanon. Altogether, nearly half the free world's oil resources lie in these troubled Middle Eastern nations.

NO SURVIVORS

BY WILL HENRY

DISTRIBUTED BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

THE STORY: Disillusioned by the Army's Indian policy, John Clayton, civilian scout, leaves Fort Kearney, only to discover Indians are planning an attack. He hurries back to the fort, but despite his warning a detail is sent out for bread. Captain Fetterman is sent out to protect the train. Clayton sets out to head off Fetterman who is heading into an ambush.

A PIERCE cry echoed from 2000 red throats, the Indian horsemen surging like a flood up the ridge, engulfing the blue-coats on every foot.

The Minniconjou, under Thunder Hawk, struck the mounted troops first, driving them back through the foot soldiers and up the ridge beyond them. Here the pony soldiers dug in. Below them, the walk-a-heaps took to a cluster of small rocks on the otherwise naked ridge. Their muzzle-loaders began a serrated, hopeless volley.

Arrows filled the air like swarming locusts. Suddenly a lone Minniconjou warrior drove his pony clear through the pitiful group, bursting out the far side of it, sliding his pony on its haunches, wheeling, splitting the air with the Sioux cry, "Hopo! Let's go!"

His feat had breached the dam of soldier invincibility; his command loosed a flood of death through it. Directly into the muzzles of the 40 rifles, the Sioux charged their frantic ponies. There were moments then of furious action with knife and war club and ax. A scattering of the high screams of dying men.

And then an utter silence on the lower ridge.

The action could not have exceeded 15 minutes so far. Now, the warriors released by the massacre of the infantry went whooping up the hill to join their allies. Apparently at command, every bluecoat in the ranks released his horse. The animals broke back for the fort with a rush. For a moment my heart leaped. If the Indians went after the horses the troops might reach the top of the ridge, where a circle of waist-high boulders offered some chance to stand off the attackers. The ruse worked and I cheered Fetterman, silently.

The whole pack of savages went yelling off after the big, valuable horses of the white men. With the minutes of respite thus gained, Fetterman worked his command up into the boulders atop the ridge. At this point the Indians came racing back, the attack resuming, full fury.

If Fetterman had found a place to make a stand, he had also found one from which there was no escape. The ridge at this spot was no more than 50 feet wide, falling away in dizzy ice-patched slopes in three directions, with a gently rising slope behind. This slope was covered with savages, while at the bottoms of the other three declines waited the remainder of the horde. My own position was in the exact middle of the left wing of the attackers. One branch-crack or audible movement would have brought me swift and vicious death.

THE Indians, forced to hesitate by the breechloading carbines of the pony soldiers, contented themselves momentarily with firing showers of arrows into Fetterman's position. But all the while they were working up closer and closer under the rim of the ridge. I now heard them calling back and forth to one another over the heads of Fetterman's men.

Like lightning then, a Minniconjou chief, Long Fox, leaped from cover, exposing himself to the rifles of the soldiers, shouting exultantly, "Hopo! Let's go!"

Go they went, like released red arrows, flying in among the high boulders, stabbing, braining, lancing their enemies at hand's length. The last white man to die was an officer, whom I believed to be Fetterman, who broke clear of the slaughter, backing up the ridge, swinging his carbine and firing crazily, shouting aloud as he went. White Bull rode him down, driving a war arrow squarely through his chest.

Then there was no sound except that of the Indians quarreling over the trophies among the dead. I buried my face in the frozen mud and snow where I lay.

I WAS aroused by the far-off clarion of an Army bugle. A few minutes and Captain Ten Eyck appeared at the top of a high hill overlooking the battlefield. He had taken over an hour to arrive. Fetterman did not need his relief.

I believe the lives of this new command were spared by one of those weather changes which scourge the northern plains. In 15 minutes the temperature plummeted 20 degrees; a bitter wind full of icy snow rode swiftly in to blanket the dead with a merciful sheet of white. The Indians picked up their own dead, departed for the war camp on the Tongue. Their medicine men had promised them 100 white men slain. They had slain 100. It was time to go.

Sicken by the carnage on the hill, frozen to the marrow by the intense cold, stiff from not moving for an hour, half a mile from my horse, surrounded by battle-drunk hostiles, I found myself in but temporarily better position than my dead fellows.

A single file of mounted warriors loomed out of the swirling snows on my left. In the lead came a dozen braves, then a string of led-ponies bearing the corpses of the fallen.

It would be hard to say which force was the more surprised but I got in my introductions first. The right-hand revolver opened for me. I missed one of them, but five were down before the fight started. Just as the others rushed me, I thought I saw a new figure join their ranks, a bolt upright chief in black wolf-skin, riding a black horse. My thought was, "Crazy Horse. Where did he come from . . . ?" Then a stone ax crashed into the side of my skull and I knew no more.

Having First Child by Caesarian Section Doesn't Prevent Natural Births Later

By Edwin P. Jordan, M.D. Written for NEA Service

Caesar's wife is supposed to have had a child who came into the world by means of removal through a cut made into the abdomen and womb. Hence this operation has been called Caesarian section and many children have been brought from their mothers in this way. The operation raises questions sometimes of which the first is a good example.

Q—My first child was born by Caesarian section. Is it possible to have a second one by natural birth?—Mrs. D. F.

A—It used to be the general rule that once there has been a child born by Caesarian, subsequent children must also be taken the same way. Now, however, there are some exceptions.

Q—I have a teen-age boy who ruins his shirts and sweaters by excessive sweating under the arms. What would help this?—Mrs. D. C.

A—Probably the best thing would be for him to use one of the commercial anti-perspirants of which there are several on the market.

Q—I had a badly bruised leg a year ago and the leg still swells a good bit. I was told that I have a keloid. What is a keloid?—Reader.

A—A keloid is a sort of tumor of the skin made up largely of scar tissue. It generally occurs after injury and has an unfortunate tendency to recur if removed.

Q—Can anyone explain why I have dreams in the most beautiful colors? I seldom have a black and white dream and I dream almost every night.—Mrs. J. M. C.

A—One of my daughters also reports dreams in "technicolor." I don't know the reason but suspect it is a particularly active imagination for color. It would be interesting to know whether artistic persons were more likely to dream in color than the rest of us.

Q—Please explain the advantages and disadvantages of contact lenses as compared with regular glasses. It seems they would be more desirable. If so, why are not contact lenses advertised and worn by more people?—Mrs. I. W. M.

A—This is a long and complicated story. Contact lenses are indeed preferable in some kinds of visual difficulties, but these are not the most common ones. Contact lenses, however, do not give better vision than regular glasses in relative mild cases of refractive errors.

A contact lens is a foreign body in the eye and has to be properly placed in the eye and a solution used. The adjustment to these things requires a good deal of patience and care and hardly seems worthwhile unless there is a definite need for contact lenses which cannot be met by the ordinary glasses.

Q—Is it necessary to have the urine sent to a laboratory to be analyzed? My doctor tested it in the office and said it was all right.—Mrs. R. M. C.

A—It is perfectly possible for the doctor to make all ordinary tests of the urine right in the office.

Q—What causes gallstones and can they be dissolved without an operation?—Mrs. E. A. J.

A—No one knows the cause of gallstones. They cannot be dissolved by any medicine.

Q—What is the difference between muscular dystrophy and multiple sclerosis?—Dr. F.

A—They are both commonly

OLDER FOLKS OFTEN HAVE "TIRED" BLOOD

As you get older, when your color is bad and you feel tired, "all in," the chances are as high as 8 in 10 your blood is below par. Then it's time to try Geritol—the scientific blood tonic made especially for people over 35. Pale, weak blood leaves you "tired" and "blue." Red, healthy blood goes with dynamic energy. Invites that "million dollar" feeling. Geritol's action is amazing—within 24 hours Geritol also appears in your blood. Geritol also contains remarkable Vitamin B<sub>12</sub>. The wonders of which were described by Roger's Digest. If your doctor says you need an iron-blood tonic—get Geritol at your drugstore today. See how much better you feel as your color improves and tiredness goes.

Election Held By Extension Club

The September meeting of the Bowling Green home extension club met at the Claude Gardner home in Beaman, September 20, with Mrs. George N. Holman and Mrs. Gardner hostesses.

At noon a chicken dinner was served after which Miss Flossie Ferguson presided at the business meeting due to the absence of the president, Mrs. J. W. McLaughlin. The meeting opened with the club song led by Miss Leonard and a prayer by Mrs. P. A. Carry.

After the routine business was disposed of a committee was appointed to plan for Achievement Day. Letters were read concerning school lunches and breakfasts, friendliness, progress by Mrs. Stephens, Mrs. Carry and Mrs. Ellison.

Some interesting records on mental health, prepared by a well known psychologist, gave statistics that about fifty per cent of illness is due to mental health, at which illness very real pain is suffered. They are entitled "Meet Your Mind."

Officers for the coming year were elected: president, Mrs. John Rush; vice president, Mrs. L. E. Morris; secretary, Mrs. Mary Stephens; assistant secretary, Mrs. George Holman; game leader, Mrs. W. L. Marlin reporter, Mrs. L. V. Igo. Mrs. Igo will entertain at the October meeting for Mrs. Frank Summers. Mrs. Holman opened her hostess gifts and two games were played by Mrs. Rush. Visitors were Mrs. J. W. Walker of Buncheon, Miss Mary Ellen Leonard of the extension office; Mrs. Etta Scott of Beaman; Mrs. Marcell Homan and sons, Dale and Dean, Mrs. Huston Holland of Marshall and Mrs. Bob Curtiss who assisted in entertaining.

Aerial View of Georgetown

By Jack Allgaier

In 1856 a vision of progress hovered over Georgetown, Missouri, three miles north of Sedalia. The Missouri Pacific railroad was extending its lines from St. Louis and the direction of its route was pointed toward the small town.

Georgetown's most loyal and active citizen, General George R. Smith, as early as 1850, had seen the coming of the railroad and had urged and argued repeatedly with the citizens that community growth would be dependent upon what trail the iron horse took.

In regular railroad meetings held at the court house in Georgetown General Smith told those assembled that to lose the railroad would be to lose Georgetown. He urged his constituents to raise the bond money needed to bring the railroad through the town, but in a jocular mood, born from the false sense of security that permeated the community, they laughed into defeat the only man who had the foresight and ability to save them.

A Prediction That Came True

In one of his last attempts at persuasion General Smith warned the men vehemently that if they did not act at once to raise the money demanded by the railroad they would "live to see the day when bats and owls would make their home in the court house, while a flourishing town would grow up in their suburbs."

Again his prediction was ignored and acting in what appeared to be direct opposition to his warnings the residents began to make improvements on the court house building, to construct new business establishments, and to make other physical preparations for the enlargement of the town.

Confirmed in his belief, General Smith bought in 1852 over 1,100 acres of land south of Georgetown at the site of what is now Sedalia. He built a home there and moved his family to the deserted prairie land.

From 1856 to 1858 the engineers of the railroad surveyed the land being considered for inclusion in the right-of-way. The line which they surveyed ran through Smith's land and missed Georgetown by three miles.

A New Town in Pettis County

Soon afterwards other Missourians, who shared General Smith's confidence in the new town, began to buy lots from the General and build homes near the railroad. As the population grew the railroad decided to build a depot at Sedalia. It was then that the once optimistic Georgetown residents began to eye the community with apparent discomfort.

Emulating the progressive spirit of the founder Sedalians soon brought their town into major competition with Georgetown. Both vied for the cattle and farm trade and slowly Sedalia, as a result of its transportation facilities, won out over its neighbor.

Rumors were circulated that Sedalia was being considered as the site for a new county seat. Incensed by these reports the citizens of Georgetown for the first time began to give serious thought to a means of combating this menace to their civic security.

Despite their efforts Sedalia continued to grow, expanding rapidly in the face of Georgetown's stiffening opposition. As the population of Georgetown decreased so did its effectiveness as a county seat. The strong Sedalia group was working continuously in Jefferson City in an attempt to have the county seat moved.

Factions from both parties met on the floor of the Missouri legislature and argued bitterly, the Sedalians for civic advancement, the Georgetown delegation for survival.

Sedalia Wins County Seat

In the final analysis the size and future possibilities of Sedalia won out over Georgetown and the oblivion it faced. It wasn't long before Jefferson City decided in favor of Sedalia and Smith's new town was given the county seat in 1864. The outbreak of the Civil War prevented an immediate transfer and Georgetown kept possession of the court house for the duration of the war. In 1865, however, the Sedalia court house building was completed and the county officers moved the records to Sedalia from Georgetown. After 34 years Georgetown had lost its county seat.

The rest of the story was quick to follow. Deprived of one of her main sources of revenue the town quickly fell into economical decay and within a few years after the court house was moved only a few of the older residents remained. The business houses were vacated, homes either were torn down and rebuilt in Sedalia or left to rot beneath the cataclysmic sea of underbrush.

Georgetown Founded in 1833

Georgetown was founded around 1833, although settlers did not begin to arrive in numbers until 1835. The town was named after Georgetown, Kentucky, former home of many of the community's residents.

In 1833, by an act of the legislature Pettis County was created out of portions of Cooper and Saline counties. The temporary county seat was St. Helena, also known as Pin Hook Mills. Court was held there in the home of James Ramey for more than four years. Pin Hook was located one mile east and five miles north of Georgetown.

In 1837 the county seat was moved to Georgetown—where it remained until 1863—and a brick court house building was constructed at the cost of $4,000. By then Georgetown was a flourishing community and had a population of approximately 1,500.

One of the most interesting phases of life in Georgetown during those fruitful days revolved around the law courts and the colorful personalities that were connected with them. A short narrative, written several years ago, told of some of the antics of those robust and frolicsome barristers.

Lawyers For Opposing Clients

The article tells of one lawyer named DeBolt, who was known as a justice of the peace lawyer. It is said that DeBolt one day filed a petition as the plaintiff's attorney for a husband who was seeking a divorce from his spouse. In the petition the various reasons for the divorce were stated. DeBolt then turned around and filed a counter suit as the defendant's lawyer, denying all the charges made in the plaintiff's petition.

The day the case was brought before the bench found DeBolt and his two clients assembled in the courtroom. The judge looked at the three and asked, "Is the plaintiff ready?" DeBolt rose and replied that the plaintiff was ready. The judge then asked, "Is the defendant ready?" DeBolt rose again and answered, "The defendant is ready, your honor."

He then read the plaintiff's petition. After doing so picked up the countersuit of the wife and read an answer to these charges.

Somewhat perplexed by this unusual procedure the judge consulted several of his friends, visiting lawyers, who happened to be in the court at the time. These men, realizing that DeBolt was gloating over his clever handling of the case, decided to have some fun with him.

The spokesman for the group reported to the judge, before the filled courtroom, that both petitions seemed to be in order and that although the charges against the woman and an unnamed correspondent were in the petition the name of the other man had never been disclosed. The spokesman continued that since DeBolt was defending both parties he must know the secrets of both parties and therefore must know the guilty man and having not disclosed the name of this man he must, therefore, be the co-respondent himself.

DeBolt, upon hearing this, screamed in vigorous denial. The court, seeing how things were proceeding, sympathized with the findings of these visiting lawyers and began jokingly to accuse DeBolt.

Skinned on the Flint Hill

DeBolt was so enraged after a few minutes of this treatment, that he stormed from the courtroom, ran to his horse, "mounted in hot haste without untying the horse from the fence, clasped his spurs into the horse's flanks and the half-starved and frenzied brute plunged away, pulling down a large section of the fence, upsetting itself and its rider and skinning said rider mightily on the flint hill of Georgetown."

There was another lawyer who was described as being uncommonly gaunt. His cheeks were sunken and the flesh on his face was drawn tightly against the bone; his legs were lean and he was close to seven feet tall. Heavy grizzly eyebrows, thin taunt lips and dark sinister eyes gave him the appearance of a spectre. When he smiled his face was transformed into a death masque. He always wore a long black cape and was never seen without his small pookish dog.

In spite of his sombre appearance he was a man of marked intelligence and had a grim wit. Nothing pleased him more than to make jokes about his own gruesome appearance.

One night the local constable arrested a drunken stranger and took him to the cabin on the outskirts of the town where the lawyer lived alone with his dog. The lawyer was in bed when the two arrived and as the constable and the offender entered through the door of the cabin he was just rising. The dim light from the lantern threw eerie shadows over the bedroom of the cabin. When the drunken man saw the lawyer in his long white nightshirt his jaw dropped, his eyes strained in their sockets and through chattering teeth he blurted out: "My Lord, Mister, how long have you been dead?" The lawyer mildly amused looked at him and replied,

Two All-Star Girl
Teams Clash at the Liberty Diamond

The All-Star Girls' baseball game Thursday night is to be between the All-Star girls of the Girls' National League and the All-Star girls of the Girls' American League. The Sedalia Ban Johnson Chiefs are sponsoring the game — but don't get to play. The Chiefs were all "hepped-up" over the coming game until they read the finer print and discovered they were the sponsoring organization. The game is to be between two girl teams. These two teams are barnstorming over the mid-western states for the next few weeks, playing in Missouri and Illinois now and working down into Oklahoma and Texas as the weather grows colder.

It Isn't Softball
The girls play regulation baseball. It is not to be confused with softball. Their style of play is colorful and during the regular season play, the total American league attendance neared the million mark in the eight league cities of Peoria and Rockford, Ill.; South Bend and Fort Wayne, Ind.; Kenosha, Wis.; Battle Creek, Kalamazoo and Grand Rapids, Mich.

Real Fly Chaser

The ball used is slightly larger than the regular league baseball and it is not as heavy. It is a far cry from the softball. As compared to 90-foot bases in men's baseball, the baselines for the girls are set at 72 feet. Pitching distance is 55 feet as compared to 60 feet for men's baseball.

How to Men Only in Hitting
Otherwise the game is identical in strategy and play with regular baseball. The only point in which they differ is the hitting. However, many of the girls chosen to accompany this tour will surprise the spectators with their hitting ability.

Defense features of the game are paramount, pitching is excellent with the girls throwing usually overhanded, although they may pitch sidearm or underhanded if they desire.

Those who have seen the girls in action praise the ability of these feminine athletes. The infielders, they say, scoop up the hot grounders and make throws to first with ability of men. Outfielders think nothing of running far afield to make one-handed catches of fly balls.

Play For Benefit Funds
The teams have done much to assist in benefit funds such as at Evansville, Ind., where the net proceeds of the games played went for the Press Youth Fund for better recreational facilities for kids while in Brookfield Wednesday night, proceeds will go for furthering the Ban Johnson movement of that city.

In Sedalia proceeds made from the game are to be turned over to the Stadium Drive, which happens to be on Thursday. The proceeds are being turned over to this fund by the Chiefs of the Ban Johnson league to help swell the Jennie Jaynes Lewis Memorial fund, which is to be used for furthering and improving the recreational facilities at Liberty park.

Raytown Wins 20-6 Over K.C. Northeast

Raytown high's gridirers, who play Smith-Cotton Tigers here November 2, walloped the Kansas City Northeast Blue Jays, 20-6, at Raytown last night. It was a game postponed from last Friday.

Northeast scored first, in the opening stanza, but Raytown added a TD in each of the following quarters for the win. The Blue Jay score was on a 43-yard runback of a pass interception. Raytown's Bob Allison "climaxed" a second period 23-yard drive with a two-yard plunge. He scooted through center 14 yards for another tally in the third. Bob Keeton drove one yard for the last score, topping a 74-yard final period drive.

Ex-Denver U. Guard Files for His Back Pay as Grid Player

DENVER, Sept. 25.—(P)—A one-time lineman on University of Denver's football team has filed a claim to collect $26 in salary he says he was not paid while he was injured.

He is Ernest E. Nemeth, 24, of East Chicago, Ind., a guard of the Pioneer's 1949 team. He listed the $26 sum as a weekly salary for playing football.

Yanks Near Another Flag; Giants Give Dodgers Fits

By Jack Hand

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—(P)—Casey Stengel was close to his third straight pennant today with only one .300 hitter and no 100 RBI man on his New York Yankee club.

Actually the Yanks were nearer to the clinching than Brooklyn, practically conceded the National league flag in mid-summer. The New York Giants continue to give the Dodgers fits down the stretch while the Yank opposition falters.

Yanks Need Only 3 Wins
Needing only three more wins or Cleveland defeats to nail it down, Stengel rested his Yanks today for the final six-game dash to the wire.

Bob Kuzava (11-6), used only in relief since Aug. 9, was named to face Philadelphia's Bobby Shantz (17-9) in a stadium battle of left-handers tomorrow. Stengel hesitated to take Kuzava out of the bullpen for he has been his most effective fireman. He's 1-0 against the A's since he was traded to New York by Washington June 15.

The Yanks expect trouble from Shantz, a five-foot-seven inch toughie who has beaten them three times. Manager Jimmy Dykes was prepared to shoot the works with Morris Martin (11-4) if Shantz was off form.

Berra Hits Slump
This diet of left-handers offered no relief for Yogi Berra who has gone 15 for 0 at bat lately. Perhaps birth of his second son last night at Holy Name hospital in Teaneck, N. J., will lift him out of his slump.

Cleveland, with only three games to play, faces Chicago in a night game at Comiskey park tomorrow with Early Wynn (20-12) to face lefty Billy Pierce (14-14), another toughie. Boston, five games behind and practically eliminated, plays a night game at Washington tomorrow.

Brooks Play Braves Twice
Idle Brooklyn lined up Clem Labine (4-1) and Carl Erskine (16-10) to face the Braves tomorrow night in a two-night doubleheader at Boston. The Braves will use Warren Spahn (21-13) and Jim Wilson (6-6) or Dave Cole (2-4).

The Giants will pitch Jim Hearn (15-9) against Robin Roberts (21-12) at Philadelphia.

If the Yanks go on to win, this probably will be recognized as Stengel's greatest triumph. For this has been a skillful job of piecing together a club that never has "sets" all season.

Look At The Averages:
Phil Rizzuto .270, Mickey Mantle .266, Joe DiMaggio .252, Yogi Berra .291, Jerry Coleman .251, John Mize .260, Joe Collins .271, Gene Woodling .282, Johnny Hopp .207, Hank Bauer .292, Bobby Brown .270. You have to get down to rookie Gil McDougald, .310, to get in the .300 circle.

Berra leads the club with 84 runs batted in. Next come Woodling with 70 and DiMaggio with 68.

Veck Seeks to Put Browns in First Division

Expects to Make Up Ground in
'Hot Stove' Season

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 25.—(P)—Bill Veck has instilled a bit of spirit in the last-place St. Louis Browns since taking control in July, but the won-lost column hasn't begun to show it.

A check of the clubs standing today as compared with July 5—the last day before Veck bought the Browns from Bill and Charles DeWitt—shows the team has gone up just .033.

On July 5 the club had 21 victories and 49 defeats for .300. Today the club has 49 victories and 98 defeats for a .333 rating. That gives Veck 28 triumphs.

The .033 rise isn't what you could call energetic. But then no one looked for an overnight change that would bring the Browns to the winner's circle with the regularity of Citation. Even the vibrant Veck tempers his optimism.

Veck's purpose, naturally, is to cap a pennant. "We hope to be up there next year, fighting for the first division," he says.

That alone is quite a prediction for a team that has enjoyed the first division only 12 times in a half century.

Veck didn't have much chance to resurrect the Browns this season. The ban against trading and outright purchase of players before the season was in effect 21 days when Bill moved in.

During the winter he expects to make up lost ground—including the unveiling of a successor to manager Jack Taylor.

As it is 15 players have joined the Browns under the Veck regime, not counting recent recruits from the minors under option provisions.

Many of these are rookies still to prove their ability. Others are youngsters who don't try out until spring. And some are veterans called in for a short stay to bolster various positions.

Satch Paige, the old man of the mound, isn't included in this last. He apparently is with the Browns to stay. Especially after the last road trip that saw him give up just three hits, walk one and fan 11 in 10 1/3 innings of relief hurling.

The last trip, incidentally, may tell more of the Browns' progress than mere percentage points. The team won eight, lost five for the best on-the-road record in four years. It's also the first time the Browns have topped .500 on the road in that time.

Given a good winter of trading, Veck may be ready to roll next spring. At any rate, when the smoke clears from the hot stoves, Veck hopes to offer much more spirit to St. Louis fans—not to mention the American league.

Tigers Rested Monday But Work Today

Prepare for Friday
When St. Peters of
J. C. Plays Here

Smith-Cotton's first string gridirers enjoyed a day at ease at Monday's drills, but the second stringers took plenty of punishment. However, the Bengals worked-out the kinks as they prepared for the "weekly rough one" at Liberty park this afternoon.

The Tigers' injury list has nearly vanished, although their top running back, Floyd Burton, was severely shaken-up against Kemper. He appears to have recovered from the jolt.

Bennett To Call Position
Coach Ralph "Stub" Dow has been working freshman quarterback Richard "Buck" Bennett in the first string combination and switched Arnold to a halfback slot. This is not a permanent move, but one which Dow hopes will give the Tigers added punch when needed.

The Tiger reserves, who saw little action against Kemper Friday, were worked hard in hopes they will see more action against Smith-Cotton's next rival, St. Peters' Saints of Jefferson City. That game will be played at Liberty park Friday night.

S-C's serious work for the Friday game will be mostly a defense to combat St. Peters' deadly aerial game. The line, which turned in the remarkable feat of allowing no yardage to Kemper by rushing and dumping them in back 22 yards, will also get rough work in a head-knocking scrimmage.

The Saints, who Coach Dow called the best team the 1950 Tigers faced, have defeated the Missouri Military Academy and the Missouri School for the Deaf in their games this year while S-C holds triumphs over Marshall and Kemper.

In the game at Jefferson City last year the Tigers won a well-earned battle from the powerful "Petes" by an 8-6 margin. However, the key break of the game came on a blocked kick that went for a safety, and the victory margin.

Swim Season At Park Pool Was Success

July The Banner
Month When
14,000 Admitted

In spite of a rather unseasonably cool June and just ten days in July, the Liberty Park swimming pool closed a very successful season on Labor Day.

In June 9,000 people were admitted to the pool. In July 14,000 were admitted and during August and three days in September there were 6,000 swimmers. The largest number of swimmers for one day was 868. This number did not include the youngsters under six years of age who were accompanied by an adult. A very conservative estimate would be 975 swimmers.

The park board made the pool facilities available to the Red Cross three mornings a week through the month of June and the first week in July, for non-swimmer classes. There were 295 boys and girls enrolled in these classes, but due to adverse weather conditions, only a few in these classes were able to attend and complete the course. The enrollment was not limited to Sedalia, but boys and girls throughout the county were given this privilege. There was no admission charge and no charge for the lessons.

The program was directed by Henry Sutton, who is chairman of "Water Safety" in the local chapter of the Red Cross. Miss Judy Yeaman was in charge of the swimming classes, and was assisted in the instruction by the life guards at the pool.

The values of this program can not be measured in the number who learned to swim this year, but must be carried on year after year for the maximum benefits. If this program this summer will help to save a life in the future it has been well worth the expenditure on the part of the Red Cross and the Park Board.

In addition to the swimming class for non-swimmers, Miss Yeaman and Mr. Sutton conducted life saving classes, and there were 22 people who passed either their Junior Red Cross Life Saving or their Senior Red Cross Life Saving. The final event of the Red Cross program was a water show on August 18th, which wasn't too well attended, but was enjoyed by everyone who was able to be there.

The people of Sedalia have a swimming pool of which they can be justly proud and in the very near future with the Park improvements that are being planned, you will have along with the beauty spot it now is, all the recreational facilities that the park has needed for so long, and something that will be second to none in Missouri.

The pool was managed by P. A. Sillers, who did an excellent job. His organization and program speaks for itself by the attendance. Liberty pool has become one of the favorite summer recreation spots in Sedalia, and will grow in popularity each year.

Divorce Made Easy
CAIRO—(P)—The French language newspaper "Le Progrès" says that Egyptian high society is gossiping about a wealthy Egyptian senator who divorced his wife just as he left the country for a vacation abroad.

The much-married and much-divorced senator decided to rid himself of this "unpleasant" wife. She accompanied him to the ship. As they embraced lovingly, he slipped her a small blue envelope.

Once ashore, she looked inside the envelope. It was a bill of divorce.

In Egypt, under Moslem law, a husband can divorce his wife merely by telling her three times: "I divorce thee." It's also possible to do it the senator's easier way, by getting the right legal paper.

He exposed cancer cells and normal mouse cells, in test tubes, to a poison that damaged both. When a second chemical was added, the normal cell was protected from the poison, by performing a re-

AFL To Oppose Re-Election Of 19 'Unfriendly' Senators

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 25.—The American Federation of Labor Monday named 19 senators as marked for defeat next year if more friendly candidates oppose them.

To finance the AFL's 1952 political activities the 70th convention has boosted the per capita tax on its 8,000,000 members a penny a month. That will yield nearly $1,000,000.

On top of that the federation's political league will try to pick up another million dollars in voluntary contributions of $1 each from members. The league collected $800,000 in last year's campaign from a $2 drive.

Keenan Compiles Names

The particular target candidates described as "anti-labor incumbent Senators" were named by Joseph D. Keenan, stepping out as director of the political league. James L. McDevitt, head of the Pennsylvania State Federation of Labor, will run the 1952 political activities.

The recommendations were approved without opposition by a voice vote of the delegates. Keenan hailed the approval as committing the AFL to opposing the Senators.

Keenan said "a net gain of nine seats is all we need for a friendly Senate majority."

He classed the following as "enemies of labor up for election" in 1952:

"In the northeast, there's Brewster of Maine, and Flanders of Vermont. Down in Pennsylvania there is Martin. In New Jersey, Senator Smith, and in Delaware, the notorious Senator Williams. There is Dixiecrat O'Connor of Maryland up for re-election, as well as the dean of all the Dixiecrats, Harry Byrd of Virginia. Tom Connally of Texas, Senator Stennis of Mississippi and Senator Holland of Florida are the only other Dixiecrats up this year.

In the midwest there is Bricker of Ohio, Butler of Nebraska, and Senator Jenner of Indiana. Ken of Missouri and Jumping-Joe McCarthy of Wisconsin all should be retired in 1952.

"Out in the west there's Cain of Washington, Ecton of Montana, Watkins of Utah, and Knowland of California, all of whom can be defeated in 1952.

As for the presidential contests, Keenan proposed a hand-off policy for the political league in the selection of nominees.

"In June, 1952, there will be two conventions which will write platforms and select candidate, and then, and only then, should we consider any candidacy for the presidency and I don't think it should be up to labor's league for political education."

Georgetown Was Noted in Early History Of Pettis County

"If I live to next Saturday, I'll be dead exactly three weeks."

Leading Educational Center

Another feature of Georgetown was the schooling system. At one time, because of the number of institutions of learning which were operating in the town, Georgetown was considered one of the state's leading educational centers.

In 1841 the Georgetown Academy was opened. It was followed six years later by Campbell College. The Georgetown Female School was the next college to open. The school was started in 1860 by Anthony Haynes. In 1865 A. N. Neal started another Georgetown Academy with a roster of more than 150 students. It later became one of the most comprehensive schools in the state.

The Georgetown of today has lost all of this. The courts have long since been moved to Sedalia, the old schools were closed and all that remains are a few scattered farms. Georgetown's shrinkage was a tragic one in view of the fact it was afforded every opportunity to build itself into one of Missouri's leading cities. However, proud and confident, the early citizens laughed at the future and the chances offered them and, to literally translate the time-worn cliché, "laughed themselves to death."

Verdict of $250 In Damage Suit

In a damage suit of Ernest Schlichting et al. against Marvin Howard, doing business as the Sedalia Bus Co., a jury found for the plaintiffs in the amount of $250. The case was heard Saturday before Judge Dimmitt Hoffman and the jury.

The jury was composed of Otto Diekmann, C. F. Redden, Paul Fiedler, Mrs. Jack Radar, Mrs. C. N. Marshall, Guy Brownfield, Virginia Hinkle, Lyman Keuper, Wayne Davis, J. F. McVey, W. H. Page and F. F. Kock.

The verdict was divided to $178.94 to Plaintiff Schlichting and $71.06 to the Allied Mutual Insurance Co.

Bamburg and Bogutski represented the plaintiffs Martin and Gibson the defendants.

Army To Send 6,000 Overseas Next Month

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—The Army has announced that 6,000 soldiers from units in the U. S. will be sent overseas between Nov. 15 and 25, to keep the rotation program going at full rate.

These replacements, primarily for the Far East, will be levied from the six army areas and will be in addition to men shipped from recruit replacement centers. The army said that soldiers selected from the units will be given a minimum of seven days home leave before sailing.

Included in the current levy are 700 men from the 82nd Airborne Division, which the army said is currently overstrength. One regiment from the 11th Airborne Division, the 187th, has been in the Far East since shortly after the outbreak of hostilities in Korea.

The army said that no men will be selected from the 28th and 43rd National Guard Divisions because these two units have been earmarked for movement to Europe.

Scott Waives Preliminary

William W. Scott, Marshall cab driver, who was at the wheel of the machine which struck and killed Earl Conway, waived his preliminary hearing in Magistrate court on a manslaughter charge in Marshall Saturday.

Scott was bound over to the January term of the Saline county Circuit Court. His bond, originally set at $7,500, was reduced to $5,-

Earlier Saturday a coroner's jury found that the Napton, Mo. mail carrier "came to his death by accident by being struck by a motor car driven by William Scott, which shows a degree of negligence."

Senate Votes To Tax Undistributed Returns

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—A tax on undistributed earnings of mutual savings banks and saving and loan associations was approved by the Senate Monday 60 to 19.

The levy is part of a bill to raise $5,500,000,000 (B) in new taxes. The administration asked for $10,-000,000,000 in new taxes, and the House passed a measure designed to raise $7,200,000,000. But that was whittled by the Senate finance committee.
